Intern Digital Projects & Data Research (m/f/d)*

Location
Munich

In DAA the Data Hunting team is highly engaged to find, evaluate and to make internal/external data available for MR business purposes. The aim is to enhance MR risk intelligence and continue to develop better pricing models, products, services for MR clients and also to drive new and data driven business models.

Your job

- Independently searching, pre-selecting and structuring internal and external data (e.g. socio-economic, weather, infrastructure, health, geo, agricultural and behavioural data)
- Helping to design, evaluate and implement projects aimed at generating data and developing new business models
- Supporting the project managers and researchers (e.g. design project plans, meeting preparation and follow-up)
- Supporting the analysis and processing of complex data sets together with a team of experienced experts from Underwriting, Business Development and Data Analytics
- Independently finding solutions to data-related problems
- Helping to analyse, evaluate and program new data-generation technologies (e.g. web crawling)
- Currently we have a focus on Cyber, Building, Agricultural and Company Data

Your profile

- Currently studying mathematics, sociology, economics, politics, geo or natural sciences
- Interested in a broad range of technical or socially relevant topics that go beyond (re)insurance (e.g. infrastructure, aviation, healthcare, finance, consumer market, cyber)
- Some initial project management experience
- Must enjoy handling large amounts of data and carrying out structured analyses
- Affinity for new technologies and analytical methods
- Creative, open-minded and hands-on approach, excellent communication skills in dealing with various stakeholders
- Good knowledge of MS Office (especially Excel), and very good English language skills
- Knowledge of one of the programming languages or tools as SQL, Python, ArcGIS or R
