Intern Climate Change Solutions (m/f/d)*

Location
Munich

Munich Re’s Climate Changes Solutions Department within the division Strategy & Innovation drives Munich Re’s climate excellence. It is an expertise and service driven department with internal & external clients and stakeholders. We provide scientific, social and economic insights into global challenges resulting from climate change to enable offerings that help to engage with climate change mitigation and adaptation.

Your job
- Assess the impact of climate change on natural catastrophes, the status of the global energy transition and climate regulation for financial institutions, including climate stress tests
- Analyse industry and company reports, financial statements, and scientific literature to understand and summarize different approaches to the climate topic
- Participate in current projects with different internal stakeholders
- Support in internal and external strategic assessments, communications, and presentations

Your profile
- You will bring intellectual curiosity in the field of climate change and climate science (a completed course of climate change basics or similar subjects is an advantage)
- Background in the field of sustainable finance, economics, environmental law, commerce, or related fields
- Proactiveness, willingness to learn fast, analytical and abstract thinking skills and flexibility to work in a hybrid environment with a diverse team
- A high level of proficiency in PowerPoint is essential
- Fluency in English is essential

Students from countries outside the EU require a German residence-/work permit.
