UI/UX Designer (m/f/d)

Join our team as a full-time UI/UX Designer and play a vital role in advancing the QYOB0 platform – a cutting-edge market analytics solution that focuses on optimizing the pharmaceutical value chain. Your work will contribute to a solution that revolutionizes global drug supply chains, making them more transparent, efficient, and dependable.

What you’ll bring:
- 3-5 years of relevant software product design experience, successfully guiding products from conception to launch
- An impressive portfolio featuring your projects that inspire and captivate
- Expertise in visual and interaction design, sketching, and prototyping
- Solid grasp of typography, composition, and the latest design trends
- Strong visual skills with meticulous attention to detail
- Proficiency in designing for both web and mobile applications
- Ability to substantiate UI choices with data while championing user-centric design
- Willingness to embrace feedback and proactively seek actionable solutions
- Excellent communication, organizational, and interpersonal skills, a collaborative team player
- Desire to integrate into a startup-like team, adapt to various roles, and hit the ground running
- Creative problem-solving techniques, utilizing diverse and iterative methods to transform raw ideas into refined customer experiences

What you’ll do:
- Crafting customer-centric designs by translating clients’ needs into high/low fidelity prototypes, developing UI components and patterns, and producing design specifications
- Provide support through user research, data collection, and testing endeavors
- Collaborate with the development and business teams to ensure alignment between solutions and design specifications
- Create and maintain well-structured design files and artifacts
- Adhere rigorously to design best practices, standards, and brand consistency
- Contribute actively to team brainstorming sessions, meetings, and workshops, facilitating a harmonious equilibrium between clients’ aspirations and technical feasibility

What we offer:
- Extensive training & coaching opportunities
- An inclusive, non-hierarchical team comprising experienced and open-minded colleagues
- Employee share ownership
- Unlimited coffee supply, a beautiful working space in the heart of Munich (Marienplatz), and team events on a regular basis
